VOTERS GIVE JAYSEE PLANT APPROVAL THREE TO ONE

Twelve years of waiting, twelve years of hoping, and twelve years of longing, ended last night for the students, faculty and citizens of Santa Ana when the voters overwhelmingly approved the proposed new junior college by a three to one majority.

Total unofficial vote in the Tuesday election was recorded as 7,949 with 5,947 cast for the college and 2002 voting against. Sixty-three absentee ballots have yet to be counted before the returns are official, but this number could not influence the outcome of the election.

Final results will be official on November 6 when Harold Yost, business manager of the school system, counts the absentee ballots and reports the complete results to the Board of Education. Unless a protest is made, which would necessitate a recount of the ballots, the Board may then act upon the announced results.

Leading precinct in the city last night in total votes cast was Wilson, home district of John H. McCoy, director of the junior college, and located in the northwest part of the city. In this district 807 votes were cast with a majority of 130 over the two-thirds necessary. This plurality was the largest for any precinct.

Board profits on sale of college site

Trading two acres for 48 was marked up to the credit side of the Board of Education as sale of the present site to Buffum's department store of Long Beach was announced this week.

Total price of the present junior college site was $152,500, Harold Yost, business manager of the school system, stated.

With the recent sale of oranges at the newly chosen site netting a $20,000 profit this year and the prospect of more coming in next year, the board eventually will have bought the complete acreage on 17th street with the profits made from the land transaction.

The Board of Education retained the right to keep the present College Hall until Aug. 1, 1946 in the sale just announced. Buffum's has the right to use the south 100 feet of the property but company officials state that they will probably not build for some time.

WORKERS UNITE FOR FINAL DRIVE

Jaysee students aid campaign by bringing voters to polls

Approximately 100 jaysee students helped to get out the vote, yesterday by donating time and cars to provide transportation for those voters who, otherwise, would have been unable to go to the polls.

The students were divided into groups of five or six, and each group was presided over by a faculty member. Operating from the Junior Chamber of Commerce office, students methodically covered each precinct, making certain that every registered voter would go to the polls.

On Monday students voluntarily made a survey to determine the approximate number of eligible voters that would be present at the polls. The people interviewed were offered free transportation to and from their polling place.

These student projects were inspired at an assembly Monday, when James Sewell, president of the Lions club spoke to the Associated Students, urging them to get behind the bond issue campaign and insure its success.

John H. McCoy, director of the college, also spoke briefly urging the students to help.

Business men put in last hectic

Downtown business men burned the mid-night oil Monday night as the final stages for the voting on Tuesday was prepared.

Voting booth majors were lining up potential workers and mapping out their districts that would need coverage on the polling day.

Radio speakers made their final plea for a favorable vote, and telephones were busy all over the city as a canvas of precincts was completed.

School may get Federal grant of $875,000

Possibility of $875,000 from the Federal government to complete the new junior college was envisioned today by Board of Education members.

Approval Tuesday by the people of a new junior college opened the way for further talks with the Federal Works Agency for a direct grant of money.

Recent surveys in Santa Ana by officials of the FWA revealed that the government was considering possibilities of matching local projects dollar for dollar. The government men were interested to note that the Santa Ana junior college project was through the preliminary stages and ready for active support.

THANKS TO EVERYONE

When you are a student in the junior college, it never quite occurs to you that the people of the community look upon the institution as part of their life.

At least, not until the affairs of the college become focused in the way that they have during the campaign that has just ended.

Then, the student learns how many actually friends the junior college possesses. And these community friends are of the best kind, for they give of their own time to help the progress of the school.

Appreciation Felt

So many people helped in the current campaign that the total number finally was lost. Everywhere it seemed that someone was passing out posters, calling on homes, speaking on the radio, raising money, or just passing along a good argument in favor of the college to a friend.

The students of this school naturally feel appreciative of the interest shown in the welfare of the campus. As a part of the college, they wish to feel proud of it. For this reason the building of a new junior college was of intense concern to them.

Win, Lose, or Draw

As this is written, the final day of election is here. Regardless of the outcome, the students want to thank those persons who took part in the drive to carry the need of Santa Ana Jaysee to the public.

Win, lose, or draw—it has been nice to know that so many in the community like the school enough to work for it.

In behalf of the students of the campus, faculty and the members of the Board of Education, the El Don would like to say to the college supporters: THANKS FOR EVERYTHING!—D. McD.

CAMPUS VETERANS

Twelve days of hard, close-up tank fighting on the little known island of Peleliu in the Palaus group climaxed the service days of ex-Marine Bob Fletcher, now a student at Santa Ana jaysee.

"I was in the second tank to reach the beach," says Bob who was in the First Tank Battalion attached to the famed 1st Marine Division. Most vivid in his memory was the sudden encounter of a well camouflaged Jap anti-tank gun that resulted in a broadside of four armor piercing shells and the wounding of two fellow crew members.

"One of the shells passed right under my seat," according to the ex-Marine. Bob, acting as an assistant gunner in a Sherman tank, was put out of action, as was the entire crew on September 15th when, during "chow" and an interview by a war correspondent, a Japanese mortar shell found the group. One of the crew members was killed, the correspondent and the others seriously wounded. Bob escaped with a bad leg injury.

A graduate of Santa Ana high school, Bob joined the Marines in November, 1942 and, after training in San Diego and Camp Elliott, he left for the Pacific theater and saw New Caledonia, Guadalcanal, and the Russell Islands before the invasion of the Palaus island group which was to be a stepping stone to the Philippine Island attacks.

Although he was hit in September Bob didn't return to the "states" until early this January. He was separated from the Marines last September.

KRISHER VET OF PHILIPPINES
On our campus this semester is former Staff Sergeant Max Krisher, United States Army. After three years of army life, Krisher is now attending junior college in preparation for higher work in plastics in a school in Los Angeles, which he will attend under the G.I. education bill.

During World War II, Krisher was stationed at Oahu and Kauai, in the Hawaiian Island group; at Makin Island, in the Central Pacific; at Australia; New Guinea and on Leyte and Luzon.

Besides having three purple hearts—one with a cluster—Mr. Krisher has the silver star and bronze star—both for meritorious service—the Philippine liberation ribbon and two arrowheads, the Asiatic Pacific ribbon with four campaign stars, the good conduct ribbon—for three years with the Army—the combat infantry badge, and six over-seas stripes.

One of the most thrilling experiences he had was when he and his squad participated in the capture of Bagio, the beautiful summer capitol of Luzon.

Students vote for jaysee

Casting ballots in support of the new Santa Ana junior college, Don students endorsed the issue by going to the polls yesterday. They further emphasized the interest men and women attending college felt in the outcome of this vital election in an interview conducted by the El Don.

In many cases the campus project was the first proposal on which veterans had voted since returning home, and for other students it marked the first vote since reaching their maturity.

The following are some opinions expressed at the polls:

"As a returning serviceman, I believe that education should be brought up to par in Santa Ana and I know that the young people will gratefully take advantage of the new junior college."—Max Krisher.

"When I stepped into the voting booth yesterday to cast a vote for the new junior college, I was thrilled to think that I had a say on such an important matter."—Beverly Harris Honan.

"It's about time we get a new campus and all that goes with it."—Bob Fletcher, ex-marine.

"I think the project is long overdue in Santa Ana, if we are going to hold up our heads with any civic pride."—ex-pilot, Bob Frazee

"I voted for the new junior college because I feel that the fine spirit exhibited by the college students deserves encouragement."—Laura McKee.

Gene Edwards

This column, with following issues of El Don, will introduce outstanding students in all departments of Santa Ana Junior college.

Outstanding in creative art work is freshman Gene Edwards, who now holds the position of art editor on the staff of El Don. Beginning his career at Santa Ana high school, Edwards designed programs, made posters, and was a contributor for the high school's yearbook, the Ariel.

Does Design Work

He also did cartooning for the Generator, and for Leaves in the Wind, which is published by the creative writing class at the high school. Another important contribution was the designing of the high school student body ticket which is being used at the present time.

In doing commercial art work Edwards has designed letterheads, menus, and personal greeting cards for firms and individuals and around Santa Ana.

Active at Jaysee

While attending jaysee, he was active as a member of the art staff of Del Ano, while making posters and signs for Don football games. After graduating, Edwards intended to take an art course at UCLA to prepare for a career of cartooning.

He contributed artistic work recently in behalf of the bond campaign. His cartoon, "Whistle Mother," having been featured last week on the bulletin board of College hall, and another cartoon drawn for El Don, showing that citizens should vote "yes" for new junior college, was used in the last issue of the Santa Ana jaysee.

Future Dons, Don favor new jaysee of Santa Ana high

Views on the erection of a new jaysee were expressed this week by Santa Ana high school students when a public opinion poll was conducted at the high school by El Don. All of the students interviewed were in favor of the bond issue, and the following are representative opinions.

"If construction of a new jaysee is under way when I graduate, I will be sure to attend, because the educational advantages that new college will be able to offer..."—Robert Shirley, senior.

"The condition of the building that house the old college is deplorable. A new campus would certainly be an asset to the city."—Lois Bush, junior.

"A new jaysee is the best way possible for Santa Anans to show their appreciation to returning veterans, who wish to continue their education."... Jim Be navy veteran, senior.

The Student Speaks

By DICK SMITH

Well, here it is again—the question of compulsory military training, disguised by the nice title "universal service." Whatever he calls it, President Truman is asking Congress to force the nation's young men to give a year out of their lives in peacetime to military training.

And Congress isn't too eager for Mr. Truman's idea, because of the pressure exerted on it by groups opposing conscription, plus the doubt of whether it is actually necessary or not.

Russia Interested

Russia must be watching this development with interest, and probably a little hostility. America says through its statesmen that there must be peace through international cooperation. At the same time, the chief of state wants the country to be prepared for war.

For war with whom? Certainly not Germany and Japan. They are washed up, under the heel of Allied occupation armies. These two Axis powers are completely exhausted, their capacity for war-making destroyed.

There are only three really strong powers left. These are Russia, Britain, and the United States. It would certainly be unlikely that we should go to war with England, with whom we speak the same language, and which is a sister democracy.

War With Russia?

This leaves Russia. Could it be that Mr. Truman wants to create a huge organized reserve against the possibility of war with Russia? Could it be that Mr. Truman has no faith in American diplomacy?

Our statesman speak of the World Charter, a Security Council, and other plans to outlaw war. Yet, at the same time our President asks for conscription so that we may be better prepared to fight the next one. Something's wrong somewhere.

Manufacturers Strike

Drew Pearson calls our attention to the sit-down strike staged by manufacturers against the OPA, excess profits taxes, and the American public. He points out that there will probably be no new radios or washing machines for several months.

It seems that industry is waiting for Congress to repeal excess profits and lower corporate taxes, meanwhile keeping production down so that 1945 profits will be below the 1936-1939 level, thus lowering taxes, forcing the government to make refunds.

Not Going to Help Employment

Well, that isn't going to help the employment picture one bit and the scarcity of badly-needed civilian goods is apt to continue as long as industry follows this practice.

What should be done? Well, seems with the war over, and the government following a policy of economy, that some of the taxes might be taken off industry. After all, manufacturers are entitled to profit from their business. For it is profit that stimulates production and efficiency.

The price ceilings could be eased too. As soon as production of washing machines, radios, refrigerators, automobiles, and other needed commodities gets into full swing, prices will seek their natural levels, and competition between various firms will make it impossible for manufacturers to charge outrageous, inflationary prices for their goods.

Women's Service Clubs Initiate Pledges

50 co-eds welcomed at informal parties on Monday

After a week of pledging, approximately 50 college initiates were honored at parties given October 22 by the four women's service clubs.

Club to discuss Venezuela upheaval

Venezuela will be the topic of discussion when the newly organized International Relations club under the direction of Mrs. John Tessmann, history instructor, meets Monday noon, November 5 in BL.

Don McDaniel was elected chairman of the group at a recent meeting. He will be assisted by Gene Edwards, who is in charge of publicity, and Dick Reish, secretary.

According to Mrs. Tessmann the purpose of the club is to hold discussions on events and happenings that effect the world as a whole and the United States in particular. Books and pamphlets for the group are provided by the Carnegie Institute.

John H. McCoy, director of the junior college, points out to Martha Graham and Marjorie Underwood, jaysee co-eds, some of the new buildings that will be on the campus as they look at the architect's model of the proposed project.

Jeanette Shook edits Del Ano

Jeanette Shook, sophomore, was named editor of Del Ano, college yearbook, this week by Frances Egge, head of the art department campus publication, Tavern Post.

After graduating from Newport Harbor high school, Jeanette helped to edit the alumni paper of that school, Newport Harbor High School Fanfair.

Jeanette, who is enrolled for the course of pre-nursing at jaysee, succeeds Margaret Grisct who was editor of the All-American award winning book last year.

According to Miss Egge, the remaining staff members will be appointed soon.

Jeanette Shook . . . Del Ano editor and faculty adviser for Del Ano.

Last year, Jeanette served as women's sports editor and co-editor of activities on the staff of the yearbook and also contributed creative writing and poetry to the

Veterans increase total enrollment

Increasing the total to 31, Ray Sutton, Don Nelson, Charles Lanning, Larry Moran, and Bill Klenek returned from the service to join forces with other returning Dons.

After game hop due November 9

Echoing the gridiron spirit, the first post-football dance of the year will be held at the "Hut," Santa Ana high school, immediately after the bowl clash between San Bernardino and Santa Ana on November 9.

The Dons will act as hosts to members of the Berdoo "Indian" tribe as jitterbugs will cut college capers to the rhythm of recorded dance music.

Admission to the dance is free to all students possessing accredited student tickets.

Helen Asher, social commissioner in charge of the affair stresses, "Don't miss the big dance November 9! Everyone should attend and I know Coach Bill Cook will be there along with all the football players."

Carr to lead frosh during coming year

Lloyd Carr will lead activities of the freshmen class this year as president, according to the results in a recent underclassman election.

Carr will be assisted by Gene Cairns, vice-president, while Camille Hansen accepted the duties of secretary-treasurer.

Dons Renew Feud With Chaffey

Panther team weak following Fullerton clash

Trying for their second straight win over a weakened Chaffey ball club, the Dons will tackle the Panthers next Friday on the rival's home grounds at 8 p. m.

Chaffey has had one win since playing the Dons their previous engagement at the local bowl. The Panthers defeated the Riverside

Acting in an effort to help an injury depleted Chaffey jaysee team, next Friday's game with the Panthers will be cut to quarters of 12½ minutes each instead of the regulation 15 minutes, it was announced this afternoon by Don coach, Bill Cook.

The measure was taken on a suggestion from Chaffey who had been a doubtful starter three nights ago because of their injury riddled squad.

Bengals to a tune of 19-13 on the loser's field two weeks ago, while the Dons were plastering the San Bernardino Indians 25-0.

Don Line-up Same

In the first game these two teams played the Dons were victorious by a score of 12-0, and are hoping for another win to put them higher up in the conference standings.

The Dons will probably be at full strength when they travel to Ontario, because it is hoped that all the ineligible men will have their scholastic difficulties made up by then.

Done Line-up Same

The lineup for the Dons will probably be the same that has started most of the games which will mean Don Rehm and Tex Perriraz at ends; Bill Mayes and Jim Cook at the tackle spots; Bill Neth and Turk Dennis at guards; and Don Kelchner at center. In the backfield it will probably be Paul Myrehn at quarterback; Jack Matsuda at left half; Gene Scarbrough at right half, and Tom Kilker at fullback.

Dons Lead Eastern League

San Berdoo Indians prove easy victims as Dons win 25-0

Running roughshod over what was expected to be a formidable foe, Santa Ana galloped to its second straight conference victory recently with a 25-0 win over the San Bernardino Indians on the loser's field.

The Dons broke to an early lead after Tom Kilker tossed a pass to Gene Scarbrough, who galloped down to the San Berdoo three yard marker. Kilker followed through with the first tally. Not long after, Don Rehm recovered an Indian fumble on the Berdoo 28. After Paul Myrehn had smashed to the 15 and Kilker to the nine, Myrehn flipped a short one to Rehm to make the count 12-0.

Kilker Goes Over

Later the Dons drove deep into Indian territory. Then, after they had been penalized all over the field, Santa Ana took advantage of an Indian blunder which brought the ball down the three yard line. Kilker again went over for the locals.

In the closing minutes of the battle, the subs had a chance to show their stuff. Bob Perryman intercepted a San Bernardino pass on the Don 42. After the locals had driven to the midfield stripe Gene Cairns' aerial connected with Bill Scott, who went all the way for the T.D. Roger Neth then booted the only conversion of the evening.

Don Passes Good

The Indians never showed much strength, gaining only 65 yards rushing and but six through the air. Don passing proved very effective, with more than half clicking, two for tallies.

FLASH

Don Miller was named Don-of-the-Week for his performance in the Riverside game last week, it was announced today by Vander-mast.

Bill Mayes, rugged tackle on the Don team, was voted Don-of-the-Week for the San Bernardino game, it was announced today by Vander-mast.

Girls Sports

Welcoming new members of the W.A.A. a chicken dinner and theater party was held Thursday night in the women's lounge.

Dinner was served to Barbara Ware, Jane Alexander, Cecelia Flanagan, Eunice Fellhauer, Vivian Thompson, Betty Herrin, Gloria Contreras, Louise Partidge, Becky Franklin, Dorothy Bishop, and Betty Chapman.

Outstanding games in jaysee leagues

Non-conference competition marks the sports calendar of surrounding jaysee teams this week as Friday night sees Fullerton go outside the league once more to play the powerful Long Beach junior college team in the Hornet's stadium. This game, observers believe, may be the "test" for the Fullerton eleven, victor over Chaffey last week.

Pasadena's Bull Dogs have scheduled Los Angeles City College for a game in the Rose Bowl and Compton jaysee meets the Santa Barbara Marines to round out the jaysee games in the vicinity for Friday night.

Jaysee defeats Riverside Bengals 27 to 12 Friday

Although their unscored-on record was spoiled, the Santa Ana Dons marched to their third consecutive triumph by crushing a game but outplayed Riverside Bengal outfit 27-12 last Friday at Riverside.

The Dons were paced to victory by great running of Don Miller, Paul Myrehn, Tom Kilker, and Chuck Schlegel and splendid blocking by linemen. Outstanding were the punt runbacks of Don Miller, which kept the Bengals pretty much in the hole throughout the game.

Perriraz Scores

First score for the locals came after Miller had returned a punt to the Riverside 14, then crashed to the six. Miller then passed to Keith Perriraz in the end zone for the score. Myrehn added the extra point.

In the second period the locals really began to roll. Starting from midfield, Paul Myrehn passed for first downs to Don Rehm and Jack Matsuda. Miller took the pigskin over this time and Tom Kilker made it 14-0.

Schlegel Rambles

Not long after, little Chuck Schlegel took things pretty much in his own hands. Starting at the halfway marker, Schlegel galloped around end for 32 yards to the Riverside 18 before being dragged down from behind. The next play he scooted all the way to the two. The Dons were momentarily stalled here, but Bill Flannagan finally bucked over for the third score.

The second half was even-tempered in the scoring, the Dons only collecting one more touchdown. Miller brought a Bengal punt to the Riverside 25 and then crashed on down to the 10. Myrehn then twisted and turned his way for the remaining yardage and the final touchdown.

Riverside Scores

Riverside scored on passes, one in each half. They could only drive deep into Don territory once, however, when they scored their first touchdown. The other score was accompanied by a 55-yard run.

The Dons raked up 13 first downs against 7 for the Bengals, and gained 227 yards rushing and 100 more on the seven passes completed out of the 16 thrown. They were penalized only five yards as against 105 at San Berdoo the previous week.

Between the Halves

There seems to be a shortage of good socks for the boys playing football this year. Not that we don't have them, but they are just too small. Gene Cairns seems to be the worst problem child about the socks; he has such big feet. Cairns tugs away at them trying to get them over his heel, but just can't succeed. Up at the San Berdoo game he was the last one to leave the dressing room before game time because of this obstacle; and, even then, he had to cut the socks all the way down the back and tape them on.

A few mixups in the transportation situation going up to the Indian game also occurred. The hardest hit was Chuck Grow, who got left somewhere in the shuffle. Anyway, when the party showed up that was supposed to bring him, they didn't know anything about the poor unfortunate; they hadn't been told that he was going with them. So there was poor Grow, parked somewhere down in Santa Ana with no ride. But just as Bill Cook was giving the squad that last minute talking to, here came Chuck, a-panting away and all out of breath.

And then there was the case of the missing shoes, Bill Flannagan's, to be exact. Bill reported them stolen the day before and someone was supposed to throw in an extra pair for him. But nobody did; and Bill had no shoes. He wouldn't believe that there weren't any shoes for him at first, but later he decided that there really weren't any. After a lot of worrying on the part of Flannagan, the Indians finally loaned him a pair.

Gene Scarbrough is beginning to get monotonous in his pass snagging. Against Chaffey he grabbed an aerial on the opponents' three yard marker, and against the Indians he did it again. Both times he set up touchdowns. One of these times he's just liable to break the monotony by going that last three yards.
